SECOND LODGE GAME AROUSES INTEREST

Moose Team That Beat Elks Will Cross Bats with K. C. Players

The ball game between the Moose and the Knights of Columbus will start at 1:30 o'clock instead of at 2 o'clock as has been advertised. This change was made necessary by the fact that change day in the mines has been changed from Sunday to Monday and the game will be called early in order that it may be completed in time to allow the players who are miners to get to work on time.

Both of the teams have been practicing regularly since the mitt thrown down by the Moose was picked up by the Knights of Columbus and both have rounded into first-class playing shape. The odds are on the Moose, of course, as they defeated the strong Elks' aggregation but the knights are displaying a reluctance in making claims that indicates that they believe they have a surprise in store for the Moose.

The game will be largely attended judging by the advance sales and a great deal of interest attaches to the result as the Warren District Country club has challenged the winner of the game.

WONDERFUL IS HUACHUCA CAVE

Almost Unexplored and Little Known It Has Many Beautiful Grotto Rooms IS NEAR NOGALES

NOGALES, Ariz., May 18:—One of the most wonderful caves in the world is to be found in southern Arizona. Unnamed, unexplored and almost unknown, is the vast cavern. Only a few persons have dared enter to view its grandeur, its beauties and its wonders and to study the wondrous works of nature, though tourists are beginning to make the trip.

This cave lies in the foothills of the Huachuca mountains, about forty miles northeast of Nogales, Santa Cruz county. A fairly good wagon road runs within a mile of the entrance, thence by trail. To the person or persons intending to make a visit to the cave expecting to see great wonders, it may be stated that they will be sadly disappointed when in a most unexpected manner the guide announces, "Here we are," causing one to look around at the limestone hills and scraggy bush in a vain effort to locate this wonderful cave, of which he has been told so much, but there at your feet is a small hole in the ground which is like unto the work of a prospector who is trying to beat the state on the location work of a mine.

However, in we go and, turning to the right on hands and knees we crawl through an opening about 2-3 feet and down an incline of about 30 degrees, which resembles an old stone more than anything else, and which would cause a miner to exclaim, "What a fine hanging wall." As we proceed we enter an immense chamber where the flicker of the candle does not penetrate the darkness, so distant are the ceiling and walls, and your voice has a weird and hollow sound. "Hold on there; turn to your left," orders the guide. "Just one more step in that direction and old Satan will have another volunteer in the lower regions." Just as you appear to be an immense pit, the footfall having suddenly disappeared.

As the eyes become accustomed to the darkness, grotesque shapes appear, dimly visible by the candle light. Immense stalactite columns extending from roof to floor may be seen on either side of the passageway, and as we proceed on our downward journey the formations become more interesting until you find yourself in a labyrinth of passages resembling hallways, windows or entrances into other rooms or chambers, in which appear stalactites in thin sheets, round, square, and in fact most all shapes conceivable, from a few inches to thirty feet in length. In the first chamber a most beautiful stalactite rises from the floor about twenty feet in height and stands out independent and alone in all its silent glory. Others lean in thin sheets, their individual beauty, but they do not compare with this monarch.

As the journey continues the more timid drop behind, while the would-be braves ones press on into other rooms and chambers and there behold the wondrous works of nature, appalling in its magnitude, but beautiful and interesting beyond the power of description by words. No man, he ever so hardened, can withstand that tingling of the heart, and that lonely feeling without holding silent communication with his Creator.

After exploring numerous chambers a chain of only eight or ten feet wide stops the journey onward, and being prepared for such an emergency, it is necessary to return to the place whence we came, having been underground the major portion of the day in one of the most awe-inspiring caves in the world, seeing something interesting and different all the time, but with that unsatisfied feeling of not being properly equipped to find the end and with the desire to return and see more.

The air of the chamber is fresh and in motion. We were informed that another cave whose entrance is on the other side of the ridge, about one mile distant, leads to and connects with this one.

Of its discovery little is known. Pat McCarty, of Canille, was perhaps the first local explorer of the cave. One of his trips he found a skeleton of a man lying on a shelf, which readily crumbled on being handled. Some Indian pottery and beads have been found, samples of which are on exhibition at the Tucson University.

Exploring parties have entered and spent days inside, but none have ever discovered the end. They report passages, rooms and chambers innumerable, some enormous in size, of transparent stalactite columns. One room has a level and smooth floor and they called it the dance hall, and others have unfathomed pits and chasms.

It is a cave of beauty and importance, one of the wonders of Arizona, and as such, should be thoroughly explored and made a national monument by the government.

trying to gain him, each one for her self. The song was finally acquired. The songs to be used by Mr. Harry Freeman are "Blow the Smoke Away," from "The Time, Place and the Girl," the other "You Can't Expect Kisses from Me," now being used by the Polles of 1912.

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

By Common Garden Sage a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling, Faded, Gray Hair.

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical Company of New York, who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh, faded hair, when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days, and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp and loose, falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair.

Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

SITE SECURED FOR SHATTUCK SMELTER

Definite News That Building Is to Be Erected Is Heard in Douglas

DOUGLAS, May 23.—That the Shattuck smelter has been agreed on definitely by the directors of the company, was the word given out here yesterday by L. C. Shattuck, of Globe, the local and managing director of the company. Mr. Shattuck further stated that in accordance with instructions received from the board recently he had closed the deal and secured title papers for the smelter site and the work of making a contour survey and plan of the work has been completed. Just when actual work on the plant will be started he could not say, but was positive in the statement that the smelter would be built.

The work at the mine, he said, is bringing results of the most gratifying character with every blast and stroke of the drill. The ore now being shipped to the Queen smelter is very high grade and the increase in price of the red metal, over the average price of a year ago, will go a long way towards the construction of the new plant which is now estimated to cost $500,000.
